HOT HOLLYWOOD

"He's freaking out," the source says of the newsman (in 2010).

Brian Williams received a direct hit February 10. Six days after the NBC News anchor admitted to exaggerating a story about being under fire in Iraq in 2003, he was suspended for six months without pay. In a memo to staff, NBC execs called Williams' actions "inexcusable," saying that the 55-year-old had "jeopardized the trust" of millions of Americans. The decision came as news outlets began questioning the veracity of the anchor's other reports (including a claim that he saw a dead body float past him in New Orleans after Hurricane Katrina). Explains an NBC source of the punishment, which docks Williams half of his $10 million annual salary: "The public backlash got so strong, there was nothing else they could do."

DROPPED ANCHOR

THAT'S A WRAP? Don't expect a mea culpa tour just yet. The dad of Girls actress Allison, 26, and son Douglas, 23 (with his wife of 28 years, Jane), "was told by the network to stay out of the public eye for a few months," says the source. He's spending his time fielding supportive emails and calls from friends such as Jon Stewart, Hoda Kotb and Jimmy Fallon, says another insider, but the Emmy-winning journalist could have many idle days ahead. If his fill-in, Dateline anchor Lester Holt, maintains steady ratings, says the source, "Brian won't be coming back. He's toast."

Williams, reporting from Iraq in 2007 (above) and New Orleans in 2006 (right), blamed his inaccurate anecdote on "the fog of memory."

AMANDA KNOX

She's Engaged!

» She's still on trial for her past, but Amanda Knox is ready for the future. The 27-year-old, twice convicted in Italy of killing her flat-mate Meredith Kercher in 2007, is engaged to her childhood friend, musician Colin Sutherland, 27, the Seattle Times reported February 11. Her case is due back in Italian court on appeal March 25, but Knox has said she will not willingly return: "I'm going to fight this to the very end."

Sutherland

Knox spent nearly four years in an Italian prison.

DAYTIME DRAMA

Feuds! Exits! Scandals!
It's The View's craziest season yet

Sept. 15 Rosie Perez and Nicolle Wallace join Whoopi Goldberg and Rosie O'Donnell as cohosts for the show's 18th season.

Dec. 18 In a heated segment on race, Goldberg, 59, slams O'Donnell as "a white lady telling me what is racist."

Jan. 1 Perez, 50, goes on a monthlong hiatus to rehearse for Broadway's Fish in the Dark.

Sept. 16

Republican Wallace, 43, spars with liberal O'Donnell, 52, on-air — and off.

Fifty Shades of Grey is currently in theaters.

SEX EDUCATION

» Is punishment in order? On February 9, students at Pennsylvania's Monessen Middle School were handed printouts of an erotic word-search puzzle based on Fifty Shades of Grey. The activity, labeled "very difficult," asked challengers to find words such as bondage and nipple clamps. "I don't think this is what they should be doing in eighth grade," criticized parent James Carter. Indeed, school-board solicitor John Toohey is intent on straightening out the kink: "An investigation will occur."

Jan. 14

Reports surface that Perez (left) will not return. "It's chaos," says a source.

Guest hosts Laverne Cox (below left) and Naya Rivera are cited as possible replacements. After ABC denies a shake-up, Variety claims it was a "botched" firing.

Feb. 3 Met with confetti, Perez returns to The View.

Feb. 4

New exec producer Brian Balthazar quits.

Feb. 6

O'Donnell reveals she's separated from Michelle Rounds (above right) — and quitting The View: "I'm minimizing my stress by leaving."

Feb. 10

Goldberg's job is reportedly saved by O'Donnell's departure. "Everyone's on edge," says a source.

25 Things You Don't Know About Me

The country singer, 33, fills Us in

1. I could fish all day, catch nothing and be happy.

2. I have a twin brother named Jarrod.

3. I have a car obsession.

4. I don't really like wine.

5. If something is broken at my house, I'll try to fix it myself.

6. I hate mayonnaise.

7. I love to laugh at a great joke.

8. I love to read.

9. I can draw Mickey Mouse pretty darn good.

10. I'm not a cat guy.

11. My dad is a cancer survivor.

12. I'm an avid photographer.

13. I don't have tonsils.

14. I've never been to Hawaii, but want to go.

15. I love jazz.

16. I love to surprise people but hate being surprised.

17. I've broken my collarbone two times.

18. I'm a computer nerd. Always have been.

19. I wear a size 12 shoe.

20. I'm a really fast runner. I've never lost a footrace.

21. I was kind of a dork in high school.

22. My mom was National Watermelon Queen.

23. I'm a mama's boy.

24. I have 9¾ fingers. I lost part of one in a go-karting accident.

WHAT'S IN MY BAG?

Anchor management!
Natalie Morales, 42, unpacks her tote for Us

Dainty purses won't do for the coanchor of Today (NBC, 7 A.M. weekdays). With two kids (sons Josh, 10, and Luke, 6, with investment consultant husband Joe Rhodes, 44) and frequent assignments on the road, she says her carryall "has got to be functional." The star gives Us the inside scoop on her Tumi satchel.

STIFF COMPETITION

"Whether I'm away for a story or running around Manhattan, I stock up on travel-size cans of Oribe hair spray. It's my favorite. I have three different kinds in here right now!"

THE BITE STUFF

"I'm a snacker, so there tends to always be a half-eaten Clif Bar at the bottom of my bag."

HOT HANDS

"My Eileen Fisher cashmere gloves were an emergency purchase. They're so comfortable! I also have tech-touch gloves for when I am covering a story outside and need to use my phone."

DAMAGE CONTROL

"As I get older, I'm noticing dark spots on my face. I'm crazy about putting on Naturopathica Lavender Protective sunscreen all year long, not just in summer."

BANNER MOMENT

"If something touches me, I'll take it with me. I have this Chilean flag that one of the families gave me when I covered the Copiapo mining accident in 2010. It reminds me how lucky I am to do this job."

Eric & Jessica Keeping It Hot!

Jessica Simpson can't take her hands off her husband's tight end. The star, 34, used the hashtag "FIFTYSHADESOFGJOHNSON" in a series of steamy Valentine's Day snaps with former NFL player Eric Johnson, 35. "I'm so in love with you," she captioned one Instagram. The pair of more than four years, who wed in July, maintain their spark with date nights. Says a pal of the parents of Maxwell, 2, and Ace, 20 months: "They always set aside time."

"I feel sexier as a wife," Simpson (with Johnson Nov. 17) has said.

The pair of eight years celebrated her Grammy win Feb. 8.

Miranda & Blake 'We Go the Extra Mile'

With Miranda Lambert touring across the country this year and Blake Shelton doing his new season of The Voice in L.A., the duo have to work hard to keep their marriage strong. "It's not easy, to be totally honest," Shelton, 38, tells Us. "One of us has to go way out of our way to be with the other. We have to go the extra mile and we have our priorities in order." So he went the distance when Lambert, 31, won a Grammy for Platinum February 8. "Miranda was really happy Blake was there," says a pal. "He wasn't going to make it at first, but he knew how much it meant to her." And she gets creative with gestures from afar. "We weren't together for my birthday because I was filming The Voice," Shelton says. "So she had delivered to the set a Pizza Hut stuffed crust with pepperoni in the shape of a heart!"

The couple (Feb. 8) announced their engagement in November.

Sophie & Benedict Valentine's Wedding

Here comes the Cumberbride! Oscar nominee Benedict Cumberbatch wed director Sophie Hunter, 36, in a small ceremony in Mottistone, England, February 14. "It was a magical day," a rep for the Imitation Game star, 38, said. The film's screenwriter, Graham Moore, gushed to Us of the couple: "He loves her so much, he just beams at her. It's beautiful to see." Postvows, the pair are prepping for their first child, due later this year. Adds a source, "They're overjoyed."

Selena Fell for a New Guy

Recording turned into romance for Selena Gomez and EDM DJ Anton "Zedd" Zaslavski, who is producing her next album. "Between the long hours, close quarters and creative environment, they got close," says an insider. "They're obsessed with each other — it's that early stage of infatuation." The singer, 22, and the "Clarity" mastermind, 25, aren't going public yet, though. Shares a second pal, "They haven't put an official label on the relationship."

"They have fun together," says a pal of the duo (Jan. 11).

The 19 Kids and Counting stars (Feb. 10) wed in June.

Jill & Derick

Countdown to Baby!

From a night out at P.F. Chang's to a fun day eagle-watching from a boat, Jill and Derick Dillard are making the most of the time before their baby boy's March arrival. "I'm blessed beyond measure to have the sweetest, most supportive, Godly man as my husband!" the TLC star, 23, Instagrammed of the Walmart accountant, 25, after a February 10 lunch-break date. Their firstborn is just the beginning, she said. "Both of us want as many kids as God will give us."

Mr. Grey's Real-life Lady!

Jamie Dornan doesn't blame Amelia Warner if she squirms through 50 Shades of Grey screenings. "She's well aware that it's pretend, but it's probably not that comfortable to watch," the Irish actor, 32, said of his wife, 32. Not that the former actress is above poking fun of her man, says a pal. "Amelia teases him about being such a big sex symbol when he's so soft-spoken!"

The parents of Dulcie, 15 months posed in London Feb. 12.

Sean has called Grande (Feb. 8) "the coolest."

Big Sean & Ariana

Seriously Smitten

Romancing a diva like Ariana Grande is not for the faint of heart, but Big Sean rises to the challenge. "He feels like he found his dream girl," an insider says of the rapper, 26, and the singer, 21, who share a kiss in "Patience," the video blog he released February 10. "She jokes she's found a guy who can put up with all her eccentricities." The duo of six months first clicked at a 2012 Wango Tango bash (she gushed she was a fan and rapped his lyrics to him). "We hung out once in a while," Sean said, "and it just evolved."

The Battle — Over Bobbi

Brown lies in a coma while both sides of her family fight over her future — and her fortune BY SARAH GROSSBART

In an outdoor amphitheater in suburban Atlanta, more than 300 well-wishers gathered to pray for Bobbi Kristina Brown at a vigil February 9. Amid the candlelight, Tina and Shayne Brown — the 21-year-old's aunt and cousin, respectively — found a spotlight. During a TV interview, the pair provided an update on their beloved “Krissi,” who has remained unconscious since she was found unresponsive in her bathtub January 31. “She’s progressing. She’s getting better,” Shayne, Bobby Brown’s nephew, told Entertainment Tonight. Sitting next to his mom, and bearing stitches from where she threw a glass at his head during a February 6 bar brawl, Shayne added that he and his relatives are “in good spirits. Everybody’s talking about the bickering and fighting that’s going on between the family. At this time right now, we’re just . . . a lot of emotions are going on.”

Including greed. An insider claims that the mother-son duo had asked for thousands of dollars to do the interview. Other Browns also sought benefits. When a reporter approached Krissi’s cousin Jerod for a quote on her condition, he requested a hotel room and private car service before he would even get on the phone. (On February 13, Bobby’s lawyer released a statement asking media to “disregard” Jerod: “He is unable to provide access to Bobbi Kristina or information on her condition. . . . We do not need this sideshow.”) And as Bobbi Kristina — the only child of Bobby, 46, and the late Whitney Houston — fights desperately for her life, her loved ones are fighting for cash, claims a source. With doctors making it clear that Bobbi Kristina’s chances of survival are slim (“It’s dire,” says one source), her relatives are already jockeying for a piece of the multi-million-dollar fortune she inherited from her superstar mom. If Bobbi Kristina dies, Whitney’s estate — which outlets, including Forbes, have placed at upwards of $20 million — will go to her grandmother Cissy Houston, 81, and Whitney’s brothers Michael, 53, and Gary, 57. But an insider says Bobby may try to walk away with some riches: “He’s determined to figure out the legal issues with the money.”

Meanwhile, Bobbi Kristina’s troubled life is being laid bare. In the two-plus weeks since the famous daughter of two former drug addicts was placed in a medically induced coma — and police began investigating the incident — her hidden struggles have become headline news. Ranging from the concerning (she crashed a friend’s Jeep Liberty into another car four days before her hospitalization) to the downright alarming (on January 23, a neighbor reported a violent incident in front of the couple's Atlanta-area townhouse), the leaks paint a bleak picture of the aspiring singer. Says a source, "In a lot of ways, she's like her parents. She's a disturbed girl."

► A FIGHT FOR FUNDS

Whitney's 2012 drowning death — she was found in a hotel bathtub with drugs in her system — made Bobbi Kristina sole heir and a wealthy woman. The six-time Grammy winner reportedly left her then-18-year-old daughter millions. But she could not cash in immediately. Instead, the documents laid out a timeline: She would receive a portion when she turned 21, another sum at 25 and the rest at age 30. She also got the use of Whitney's $1.2 million Atlanta-area townhome. (A Houston source says the terms of the will have changed.) In charge of doling out the funds: Whitney's sister-in-law Pat, 54, a cotrustee of Whitney's will and the same woman she entrusted with a preteen Bobbi Kristina for two years in the wake of her messy split from an allegedly abusive Bobby. Pat and Whitney's brother Gary "took care of [Bobbi Kristina] . . . while I just tried to get it all together," Whitney explained to Oprah Winfrey in 2009.

If Bobbi Kristina does not recover, the money she received on her birthday last March would go to her next of kin — her father. "She has no children and Bobby Brown is her only living parent," Atlanta-based estate and trust attorney Kasey Libby says of the "My Prerogative" singer, worth a reported $2 million himself. If Krissi has not drafted her own will, adds the lawyer, "Bobby should inherit the entirety of her money." (A Houston source counters that "Bobby isn't entitled to anything.") And an insider says the bad boy R&B singer is determined to stake his claim. As he prays at his little girl's bedside, says a source, "he's fighting with the Houstons about the money." At issue for the Houstons, says another source, is that the man some relatives blame for allowing Whitney to slide deeper into her drug addiction could walk away with her hard-earned money. "The family doesn't want to see Bobby benefit," explains the source. "As the situation gets more grave, I think people are feeling the pressure. Money is a big point of contention."

It tops a laundry list of family feuds. An insider says the Browns and the Houstons are also battling over Krissi's medical care. While the insider says Pat is considering heeding doctors' advice and letting go of Krissi, Bobby's not ready. "Bobbi Kristina hasn't faced any system failures, so he thinks she could come back with a miracle," says a Brown source. "As her father, he is the one with the power to take her off life support." After years of strain — a source says the duo were barely speaking — the father of five isn't prepared to make that call, says the source: "Their last interaction is not the last one he wants to have with his daughter." Unable to see eye to eye, says the source, "Pat and Bobby got into a fight. They hate each other."

“THERE WERE SOME SIGNS OF HOPE, AND THE FACT THAT SHE'S STILL HERE IS ENOUGH TO NOT MAKE RASH DECISIONS.”
A BOBBI KRISTINA SOURCE

Bad Blood

Bobbi Kristina's family has been dueling for decades

JULY 1992

Whitney weds Bobby, though her mom, Cissy, is not a fan. She later writes that Bobby "never seemed to be a help" to her daughter's sobriety.

JULY 1997

Whitney sustains a "deep cut" on her face while fighting with Bobby on a yacht. Cissy later recounts the story in her memoir.

JUNE 2005

Cissy watches only a small part of the 11-episode Bravo series Being Bobby Brown. "That was all I could stand. . . . [Whitney] was such a mess."

FEBRUARY 2012

Bobby tells Us that his family was asked to move at Whitney's funeral, so he left. "I refused to create a scene."

February 3, he revealed Bobbi Kristina's so-called marriage to Nick Gordon (in January 2014 they announced on Twitter that they were "#HappilyMarried") was a charade. "Bobbi Kristina is not and has never been married to Nick Gordon," Bobby's attorney told Us. Translation: He has no legal right to her money.

It was the first of many bombshells about the 25-year-old — raised by Whitney as Krissi's brother from the age of 12. Days after the incident, a March 2014 story resurfaced about Bobbi Kristina's Aunt Pat petitioning for a temporary protective order against Gordon. In the documents,

Pat claimed Gordon had "made threatening comments and posted photos of guns with the intention of making petitioner fearful for her personal safety." The reason, once again, may have been money. A March 2014 police report detailed that Gordon and Bobbi Kristina were "not pleased" that Pat had control of her trust and the couple wanted her "monthly allowance increased." But Pat, who has said the duo's relationship "didn't sit right with me," had reason to hold tight to the purse strings. "With all that money, she was afraid Nick would try to take advantage of Bobbi Kristina," explains a source. "She's worried he's a bad influence."

She was right to be concerned. Spurred in part by unexplained injuries on Krissi's body, police launched a criminal investigation into how Bobbi Kristina was deprived of oxygen for an unknown amount of time. The focus of their search, according to a February 7 CNN report, was Gordon. On February 10, a potentially damning clue came to light when police released audio from a January 23 911 call. In the recording, a man who identified himself as Rick Gilbert from Ellard Security says a neighbor saw people "hitting each other" in front of the home Bobbi Kristina and Gordon shared (Ellard did not confirm if it was Bobbi Kristina or Gordon).

Sources admit the duo did not have the best relationship. "Nick used to be a little hotheaded around her," says a Bobbi Kristina pal. A Brown family source takes a harder tack: "He was not good for her. Bobbi Kristina led a dark life."

Still, a lawyer for Gordon insists he only ever tried to make it better. "He remains in constant prayer for his companion," an attorney for Gordon, who has not been permitted to visit Bobbi Kristina in more than two weeks, told Us in a statement February 13. "And he hopes to be reunited with her soon."

REASON TO HOPE?

Both the Houstons and the Browns are following suit. "Bobby invited us to come pray for his daughter," Mississippi-based pastor Easter Robinson of the Divine Destiny Apostolic Church told Us outside Atlanta's Emory University Hospital February 11. At presstime — with Bobbi Kristina still in a medically induced coma — insiders say her recovery would require a miracle. "Bobby's hoping for the best, it just doesn't look good," says a Brown source. Adds another, "The family is fragmented, but they're trying to come together for Krissi."

Whitney's Pop Star Palace

» For Matthew Krauthamer, there's no place like Whitney's home. The doctor, 34, bought the singer's Mendham, New Jersey, mansion for $1.5 million in June 2014. It's "really an incredible home," he told Zillow of the five-bedroom mansion (complete with a two-floor pool house). He plans to return it to its original '80s-style glory. A source says Whitney's Georgia golf-course estate has also sold, but her $1.2 million Atlanta-area townhouse remains in the family — it's where Bobbi Kristina resides.

"Chris was very conflicted toward the end," hints the show source. "He has a hard time making up his mind."

ANDI'S ANGUISH

In a tear-drenched interview with host Chris Harrison February 15, former Bachelorette Andi Dorfman, 27 (above), dubbed her split from fiancé Josh Murray "the biggest failure of my life." The novice fashion designer said she and the financial services rep, 30, parted ways in January because "we ... didn't better each other." Though some websites claim she is reconnecting with runner-up Nick Viall, 34, he tells Us, "I have moved on."

"I'll always love him," Dorfman said of Murray (Jan. 5).

What a difference three days make! Uma Thurman squashes surgery rumors — with mascara and lip gloss

BY ASHER FOGLE

UMA'S Makeup

FEB. 9

Uma Thurman struck a pose — and a nerve — on the red carpet February 9. When the 44-year-old beauty stepped out for the NYC premiere of her NBC miniseries, The Slap, her distinctive face — especially the area around her eyes — looked radically different. “The whole party was talking about how she was unrecognizable,” says one attendee. “Everyone was saying either mean or funny things.”

The chatter continued online as bullies and tabloids decried what they called obvious plastic surgery. WHAT HAS UMA THURMAN DONE TO HER FACE? The Daily Mail asked. Thurman’s makeup artist Troy Surratt jumped to her defense, telling beauty site Refinery29 the next day that the two simply tried a look that was “more editorial than it was celebrity. . . . We did a much stronger brow and a bold lip for a French sort of feel.” And while other insiders also dismissed the fuss — “It was a big night, and she decided to do something fresh,” a Thurman pal told Us — the surgery snipes continued.

Until, that is, Thurman appeared on Today February 12 looking very much like, well, herself. Explaining away the controversy, the single star quipped to Savannah Guthrie: “I guess nobody liked my makeup.”

TRICKS OF THE TRADE

Anyone can achieve a facial change with an unexpected style, says Nars Cosmetics’ lead stylist Jenny Smith. “Uma’s signature look is light makeup and slightly smoky eyes that make them seem even bigger,” the pro, who hasn’t worked with

FEB. 12

Makeover

Thurman, tells Us. “If you’re used to seeing someone with heavy mascara and eyeliner and they suddenly don’t have any on and focus on bold lips instead, that can have a surprising effect. It’s a fashion-forward look.” One that may have confused fans. “Usually, people talk about her looks and it doesn’t faze her,” says a source. “But Uma thinks the amount of attention this look got is silly.”

Of course, the stunning actress — mom of Maya, 16, and Roan, 13 (with Ethan Hawke), and Luna, 2 (with Arki Busson) — works to maintain her natural glow. “Uma is obsessed with her skin,” says an insider. “She’s always getting facials.” But the breakout star of 1994’s Pulp Fiction has not, the source asserts, gone under the knife: “She’s never had anything extreme done because she doesn’t want to lose her ability to act and show emotion.”

And roles, not reviews, will always be her focus. “I’ve been doing this for years and years and years, and people say things nice and they say things mean,” Thurman said on Today. “It’s just, like, whatever.” US

BEACH BODIES

No matter how many birthdays they've had, these women look abs-olutely fabulous!

20s

Jogging keeps Ellie Goulding, 28 (wearing Zimmermann Jan. 5 in Miami), toned.

Bella Thorne, 17 (in Malibu Aug. 18), exercises with her MMA-fighter brother!

TEENS

Whitney Port, 29 (rocking Insight in Miami Dec. 5), cycles.

Harley Pasternak trains Vitamin A-clad Megan Fox, 28 (in Hawaii Jan. 14).

30s

Kendall Jenner, 19 (last March), snacks on apples.

Tennis pro Serena Williams, 33 (in Miami Sept. 13), is "proud" of her bod.

Miranda Lambert, 31 (in a Seafoolly suit in Hawaii Sept. 19), avoids carbs.

Jessica Alba, 33 (in Babajaan in Mexico Jan. 5), eats organic.

Melanie Brown, 39 (in Mexico Sept. 7), swears by SoulCycle.

"I work out daily," says 19-year-old model Gigi Hadid (in France Aug. 5).

YOU WANT TO KNOW ABOUT...

ARQUETTE'S OSCAR PREP

First-time nominee
Patricia is freaking out

Two days. That's how long it took Boyhood star Patricia Arquette to process the fact that she could win an Oscar. Forty-eight hours after receiving her nod, "I was at a restaurant and my boyfriend [artist Eric White, 46] went to the bathroom," she recalls. "When he left, it was like I woke up. I grabbed the kid at the table next to me and was like, 'I got nominated! For an Academy Award!' When he came back, the kid and I were jumping and screaming." As the best supporting actress front-runner, the Chicago native, 46 — whose new show, CBS's CSI: Cyber, debuts March 4 — could be in for more shrieking on February 22. But, she jokes, "I just hope I don't faint first!" The mom of son Enzo, 26, and daughter Harlow, 11, wins Us over.

Q: Excited for the actual ceremony?

It's the grown-up version of going to Disneyland, like, "Look at that big statue!"

Q: This film took 12 years to make. What was it like when they called cut?

So sad! I told [director] Richard Linklater, "This should be a 20-year movie." Then I tried to push it further: "You can finish when I'm a dead woman."

Q: Are your kids proud of you?

They're excited. They give me high-fives, which is a lot to get from them.

Q: Flash-forward another 12 years. Where do you see yourself?

I may be a grandma, and I'll babysit with grandma rules, like, "Let's stay up all night! We'll watch cartoons!"

Her actor siblings (including bro David) are proud: "They keep crying!"

Scott's character uses the hot tub to alter history.

ADAM MAKING WAVES

» Adam Scott was excited to take the plunge for Hot Tub Time Machine 2. "When I signed on, there wasn't a script. But I loved the first movie, so it was a no-brainer," the 41-year-old tells Us of the sequel to 2010's comedy (out February 20). There was, however, one occupational hazard: "The hot tub water got gross after a while. And it wasn't particularly warm," says the dad of son Graham and daughter Frankie

(with producer wife Naomi). "It could be called Room-Temperature Tub Time Machine."

LEAVING PAWNEE But no part could compete with his role on NBC's Parks and Recreation. "It felt like I was just hanging with friends all day," adds the actor, who played nerdy Ben. Two months after wrapping (the finale airs February 24 at 8 P.M.), he's finally found closure: "The end is happy, funny and sad, which is how I feel."

TELEVISION

BY JOHN GRIFFITHS

"I will leave a legacy," Spacey says. Counts Wright, "You mean we will."

FRIDAY 2/27

House of Cards

All hail Kevin Spacey as an increasingly powerful — and volatile — politico

It's another devilishly binge-worthy run. As season 3 of the biting Washington, D.C., drama opens, sociopath Frank Underwood (Kevin Spacey), a former U.S. senator, is now the president. (Refresher: Having already committed murder to remain in power, the South Carolinian orchestrated the previous POTUS' scandal-fueled resignation.) Fascinatingly, Frank isn't licking his chops. With poll numbers plummeting, he snarls like a dictator at his own team for not pushing his "legacy"-building legislation. Spacey is so ferocious, viewers will literally wring their hands out of concern for Frank's foes. Meanwhile, the commander in chief's also-underhanded wife, Claire (Robin Wright, her Cheshire Cat grin perfected), expects him to make her a U.N. ambassador. "I've been in the passenger seat for decades," she says.

In spare exchanges, the stars make that relationship hideous and still strangely admirable. Yet Cards is foremost a cunning cover-up tale. Ex-prostitute Rachel (Rachel Brosnahan), the proverbial girl who knows too much, remains AWOL. And she's not the only one privy to the first couple's skeletons who might have an ax to grind. In other words, the torch is just waiting for a match. (Netflix, all 13 episodes available)

SUNDAY 3/1

The Last Man on Earth

Forte swims in — and drinks from — his "margarita pool."

Sad to say, but this new comedy has about as many laughs as The Walking Dead. Saturday Night Live's likable Will Forte plays Phil, seemingly the sole survivor of an apocalyptic virus. The situation is ripe for gallows humor, but lonely Phil just plunders supermarkets and sweet-talks a mannequin, all amid a bland indie-flick vibe. There's promise when perky stranger Carol (The Daily Show's Kristen Schaal) appears and vows to cheer him up. Their halting banter, though, indicates little hope for Earth. (Fox, 9 P.M.)

Winters (right, with Kal Penn) investigates a double homicide.

SUNDAY 3/1

Battle Creek

TV hasn't delivered a buddy detective show this fun in ages. (It's from the creators of Breaking Bad and House.) Dean Winters (30 Rock) shines as Russ, a grumpy crime buster bending rules in cash-strapped Battle Creek, Michigan. In comes a new associate, seemingly perfect FBI agent Milt (Josh Duhamel), who, naturally and hilariously, just irritates Russ. The stars' prickly chemistry and endless digs are an irresistible combination — especially as they sprint after suspects in gritty chase scenes. Battle Creek is an homage made fresh. (CBS, 10 P.M.)

SUNDAY 3/1

Secrets and Lies

There will be no visits to the fridge during this taut "I didn't do it!" drama's two-hour opener. After family man Ben (Ryan Phillippe) discovers a neighborhood boy's body in the woods, the case's lead detective, steely ballbuster Andrea (Juliette Lewis), locks in on him as the culprit. Phillippe makes a compellingly vulnerable everyman, alternating between despair and fury as he does his own snooping. And Lewis is breathtakingly detestable, taunting him all the way through this expertly wound suburban mystery. (ABC, 9 P.M.)

Phillippe is dad to Belle Shouse.

MOVIES

BY MARA REINSTEIN

OPENS FRIDAY 2/20

McFarland, USA

Disney's based-on-a-true-story underdog formula works for a reason. This one in particular is awe-inspiring. A perfectly gruff Kevin Costner plays family man Jim White who, in 1987, must take a P.E. teacher job waaaay out in McFarland, California. Once Jim realizes his students — poor Mexicans working in the fields — can run like the wind, he forms a cross-country team. Sure, the kids huff and puff at the first meet, but they're determined. Sanitized as the story may be (every local has a heart of gold), there's true grit all the way to the finish line.

Costner makes his team run up hills of almond sacks.

The American Lover

Rose Tremain

crafts a poignant collection of stories. One potent tale: A British teen is seduced by a much older American photographer who whisks her to Paris — and gets her pregnant.

Making Nice

Alby isn't coping well with his mother's death from cancer. In 20 darkly funny episodes, he punches his sister, has unprotected sex, gets drunk (a lot) and rescues animals. Matt Sumell's coarse tone belies tender insight into grief.

Girl in a Band

A punk-rock legend, Sonic Youth's Kim Gordon, names names in her frank memoir. (She chronicles ex-husband Thurston Moore's infidelity and her friendship with Kurt Cobain.) Carrie Brownstein calls it "full of beauty and power."

Dreaming Spies

On an ocean cruise, Sherlock Holmes and his wife, Mary Russell, get entangled in a web of blackmail. Laurie R. King's 13th captivating novel of the pair traces their hunt from the Japanese prince's palace to Oxford's halls.

Game of Thrones Season 4

Sword-wielding skeletons! A grotesque death by poison! Thanks to ever-vivid set pieces — witness the spectacle of warrior Daenerys (Emilia Clarke) conquering a city of pyramids — the fantasy drama is particularly entertaining this round. The near-universal scheming to rule

Westeros feels less bloated, goosed by some did-that-really-just-happen moments. But the trials, figurative and literal, of unloved Tyrion (Peter Dinklage) drive this Game. Never less than brilliant, the actor displays an anguish that is painfully authentic. (iTunes, $30–$40)

JOHN GRIFFITHS

Lawrence and Liam Hemsworth reside in District 13.

Hunger Games: Mockingjay, Part 1

What do you get when you greedily split a book in two? Long-winded filler with only pockets of action. In this installment, Katniss (Jennifer Lawrence) is asked to lead the revolt against the Capitol. But danger isn't imminent yet, making the stakes frustratingly low. (Amazon and iTunes, $15–$20) MR

What I'm Watching

Shameless star Emmy Rossum goes across the pond each time she turns on her TV!

THE HONORABLE WOMAN

"I watched this twice, back to back. I was so glad Maggie Gyllenhaal won a Golden Globe. She is remarkable!"
